Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Burns Day in Detroit: Being a History of the Movement for a Burns Statue in Detroit and a Full Account of the Unveiling Ceremony Detroit has to be congratulated 011 now possessing a worthy monument to the Poet of Humanity, Robert Burns. This has been made possible by the splendid work of the Detroit Burns Club which culminated in the unveiling of the beautiful statue in Cass Park on the afternoon of Saturday, July 23rd last. I think it is a splendid idea to publish a souvenir book commemorative of the event, especially as this will make available to admirers of Burns throughout the world, the wonderful addresses which were delivered by the learned gentlemen who participated. The small part which it was my good fortune to perform at the unveiling exercises will ever be a source of pleasant memories to me. While congratulating the Burns Club on the splendid success achieved, I cannot but feel that the lion s share of the credit belongs to Mr. Edward Goodwillie, president of the Club. The indefatigable...
